Terradome Agriturismo Resort:

Towards a Territorial Praxis: European Waterscapes

JOSE ALFREDO RAMIREZ

The lecture by Alfredo Ramirez will explore the emergence of concepts such as 'territory' and 'landscape' in the design fields of architecture and urbanism. Through this lenses architects and designers can operate within contemporary conditions whereby urban environments are understood not as discrete independent collection of objects but rather as interconnected and related landscapes with far reaching implications at local and global scales.

Is an architect founder and director of Groundlab and co-director of the Landscape urbanism MA at the Architectural Association.

He studied Architecture in Mexico City and graduate from the AA Landscape Urbanism graduate programme in London 2005. Alfredo has worked and developed projects at the junction of architecture, landscape and urbanism in a variety of contexts such as China, Mexico, Spain, among others
